MEETING
As Chair Linda Cohen and Chair Elect-Secretary James Steintrager were unable to attend, the Chair of the Committee on Committees, Veronica Vieira, called to order the regular meeting of the Irvine Divisional Senate Assembly. The meeting was called to order at 3:30 p.m. on Thursday, March 14th, 2019, in the Academic Senate Conference Room in Aldrich Hall 338.

1. Roll Call
Quorum was met. Members of the Administration and the University community were present. No members of the press were present.

2. Announcements by Provost Lavernia
Provost Lavernia provided an update on principles for allocation of FTE over the next few years and answered questions about diversity and hiring. The Provost and Michael Dennin, Vice Provost for Teaching and Learning provided perspective on the extent to which the Administration sees the campus embracing online education and in what areas and answered questions about impacts of new online courses on in-person courses.

3. Draft Minutes
The Assembly unanimously voted to approve the minutes of January 31, 2019 as distributed.

4. Special Orders - Consent Calendar:
   a. Proposal to Modify Bylaw 40. Faculties
   b. Proposal to Modify Bylaw 125. Rules and Jurisdiction, Committee on Action: The Assembly voted unanimously to approve items the consent calendar (28 to 0 with no abstentions). The modifications to Bylaw 40 clarify the parameters around Faculties’ authority in determining their own bylaws, regulations, and government. The modifications to Bylaw 125 clarify the Senate’s practice for reviewing Faculties’ bylaws and align Bylaw 125 with current practice.

5. Proposed Memorial on Fossil Fuel Divestment
David Brownstone, Professor Emeritus of Economics, presented on the San Francisco Division of the Academic Senate’s proposed Memorial on Fossil Fuel Divestment. The Memorial would petition the Regents to divest the University’s endowment portfolio of all investments in the 200 publicly traded fossil fuel companies with the largest carbon reserves. Dr. Brownstone expressed that in his opinion, this would not be an effective way to go about achieving a laudable goal. He suggested that partnering with likeminded institutions and putting forward a shareholder proposal or urging the Office of the UC Chief Investment Officer to support a carbon tax might be more effective. Members of the Assembly raised questions about proposing revisions to the Memorial and the Memorial process.

6. EEE/Canvas Transition
Erik Kelly, Instructional Technology Support Manager, Office of Information Technology, and Briandy Walden, Associate Director, OIT Student & Academic Services presented on the campus transition from EEE to Canvas. Kelly shared information on multi-section course spaces, plans to consolidate TA management, Canvas integrations with third-party online homework tools, and submitting final grades to the Registrar. Kelly provided instructions on how to download historical grade records and upload syllabi to make them available to potential students. OIT is now offering individual Canvas appointments for faculty to ask questions. Kelly and Walden answered questions about Canvas course space creation and Gradebook. Members of the Assembly were encouraged to download their historical grades and to send in questions, concerns, and suggestions via email and to encourage their colleagues to do the same.

7. Outcome of UC Negotiations with Elsevier
Lorelei Tanji, University Librarian and John Renaud, Associate University Librarian for Research Resources provided an update on the outcome of UC negotiations with Elsevier. UC continues to have online access to all Elsevier articles licensed prior to January 1, 2019. Tanji assured faculty that the UCI Libraries stand ready to assist faculty in accessing the articles they need for their research and teaching. Members of the Assembly raised questions about the motivations of negotiations and negotiations with other publishers.

The U.C. Academic Senate petitions the Regents to divest the University’s endowment portfolio of all investments in the 200 publicly traded fossil fuel companies with the largest carbon reserves.
History of the Memorial to the Regents

On January 17, 2019 the UCSF Academic Senate Ad-hoc Committee on Sustainability held a vote to approve the Memorial to the Regents. The Memorial was approved.

On January 24, 2019 the UCSF Academic Senate Executive Council held a vote to approve the Memorial. The vote passed.

On February 15, 2019 the UCSF Academic Senate voted to approve the Memorial. 238 voted to approve, 58 voted to reject, and 6 abstained. The Memorial was approved.
Explanation of the Provisions of the Memorial to the Regents

The Memorial states: “The U.C. Academic Senate petitions the Regents to divest the University’s endowment portfolio of all investments in the 200 publicly traded fossil fuel companies with the largest carbon reserves.”

The Carbon Underground 200 list identifies the largest owners of carbon reserves. Fossil Free Indexes identifies the top 100 coal and the top 100 oil and gas publicly-traded reserve holders worldwide.

The Memorial petitions the Regents to divest UC’s endowment portfolio of all investments in companies on the Carbon Underground 200 list. UC currently owns shares in companies on the Carbon Underground 200 list. UC’s holdings of securities in oil and gas drilling and refining firms is approximately three percent of UC’s public equity holdings. In contrast, oil and gas drilling and refining firms represent six to seven percent of the global economy. The Memorial would have the Regents divest entirely from all companies currently on that list.
Ensuring that our planet does not undergo catastrophic climate change requires that fossil fuels be phased out in the near future. Thus, being co-owners of corporations devoted to producing fossil fuels is both morally and financially unwise.

Global warming will have catastrophic consequences.
If current trends continue, major cities will be destroyed, and trillions of dollars in assets will be lost due to sea level rise and extreme weather events. Droughts, floods, and climate changes will cause crops to fail resulting in mass starvation. Ecosystems will be devastated, which combined with other anthropogenic disruptions, will drive millions of species extinct.

Prudence requires that we secure ‘planet insurance.’
A rapid evolution to a largely carbon-free energy system is essential within the next 15 to 30 years. This is technically possible and affordable.

The greatest impact of climate change will be on those least responsible for it, and with the least power to affect it.
The effects of climate change will be greatest on the youth, and future generations for hundreds of years; on poorer countries who contributed the least atmospheric pollution; and on other species. We who benefited most from the last 300 years of cheap energy, and who control the most resources, must act for them as well as ourselves.

Fossil fuel companies are a primary cause for insufficient action countering global warming.
Fossil fuel companies continue to spend billions of dollars to extract fossil fuels that should never be burned based on a business model assuming continued high fossil fuel use. They have hidden their research predicting global warming due to atmospheric carbon dioxide for decades. They have donated millions of dollars to think tanks which spread misinformation. Their direct and indirect support has helped elect climate denying senators, representatives, governors and presidents.

Fossil fuel stocks will experience volatility if international agreements such as the Paris Agreement are followed.
In the Paris Agreement, 197 countries committed to taking the action necessary to limit global temperature rise this century to <2°C, and aim for a rise of <1.5°C. This requires that <20% of existing fossil fuel reserves can be burned. However, the value of fossil fuel companies is heavily dependent on the value of these proven reserves. If these reserves cannot be burned then those companies may undergo significant devaluation. Increased volatility of fossil fuel investments means we cannot assume that the historic returns from fossil fuel stocks will continue into the future.

Arguments in Opposition to the Memorial to the Regents

The University of California is taking meaningful steps to minimize the risk and reduce the impact of climate change. While the UC Office of Chief Investment Officer has adopted a Framework for Sustainable Investing, it must also fulfill its fiduciary duty to current and former employees. The Memorial would impose an extreme and one-sided solution to a complex problem while simultaneously threatening the financial health of UC’s investments portfolio.

Solutions to global warming will require a variety of strategies and tactics if they are not to drastically disrupt global economic systems.
While climate change threatens widespread catastrophe to cities and ecosystems, the solutions to address climate change must not threaten to upend economic systems upon which communities depend. Fossil fuels are still a viable source of energy on which economies rely. Thus, solutions to global warming must utilize a variety of strategies and tactics including but not limited to investment in carbon reducing technologies and carbon alternatives. However, until those technologies and alternatives are fully developed and sufficient substitutes to fossil fuel, we cannot completely abandon the use of fossil fuel.

University of California has already taken action against climate change.
UC has made a commitment to be carbon neutral by 2025 on its ten campuses, five medical centers, and three national labs. UC joined Mission Innovation, a global initiative, to increase investment in energy research and development. UC entered into an agreement to purchase 80 megawatts of solar power.

The UC Office of Chief Investment Officer has a fiduciary duty to over 500,000 current and former employees.
The UC Office of Chief Investment Officer has a fiduciary duty to protect and increase UC’s investment assets. Maintaining the financial health of UC’s endowment is a moral and legal responsibility of UC.

UC currently considers the impact of climate change when making investment decisions.
Based on feedback from the UC Board of Regents, UC students, faculty, staff, and stakeholders, UC established a Framework for Sustainable Investing. The Framework for Sustainable Investing sets out a process for evaluating environmental sustainability, social responsibility, and governance into investment decisions.

Divestment from fossil fuel companies would result in a forfeiture of UC’s influence over those companies as an institutional investor.
UC currently can exercise its rights as a shareholder of fossil fuel companies to advocate for solutions to global climate change including investments in alternatives to fossil fuel. Divestment would mean forfeiting UC’s right to influence corporate governance of those fossil fuel companies.

University of California Academic Council Statement on the University’s Negotiations with Elsevier Publishing

The Academic Council of the Academic Senate of the University of California (UC), hereby signals its collective and resolute commitment to support UC’s negotiating position with Elsevier in order to advance UC’s mission as a public institution, make the products of our research and scholarship as freely and widely available as possible, and ensure that UC spends taxpayer money in the most ethically, morally, and socially-responsible way when entering into agreements with commercial publishers.

Background

The University of California has been negotiating with Elsevier, the largest commercial publisher of scholarly journals. As part of the current negotiations, UC has been seeking sustainable cost controls as well as a novel transformative agreement in which our Elsevier authors would retain their copyrights, their articles would become completely and immediately open access, and the payments for open access publishing would offset our Elsevier subscription expenditures. By design, such a transformative agreement would be transitional and accelerate a shift to full open access for all our Elsevier authors within a very few years. Most significantly, a successful agreement would align closely with the mission of the University to provide “long-term societal benefits through transmitting advanced knowledge, discovering new knowledge, and functioning as an active working repository of organized knowledge.”

At the present time, UC and Elsevier have reached an impasse in their negotiations and our contract has lapsed. Nonetheless, the Academic Council of the Academic Senate stands firm in its conviction that a comprehensive transformative agreement that covers all Elsevier titles is required to achieve the aspirations embodied in the Academic Senate’s Open Access Policy, and articulated by the University Committee on Library and Scholarly Communication (UCOLASC) in its Declaration of Rights and Principles, and by the Systemwide Library and Scholarly Information Committee (SLASIAC) in its Call to Action. We support the unified strategies of the UC libraries to ameliorate the negative effects of the impasse on faculty, researchers, and students, and applaud their efforts to closely monitor alternative access along with the impacts it may have on research and teaching.

We ask all publishers to work with UC in good faith to meet our short- and long-term goals for transforming scholarly communication, and we encourage our faculty to weigh these goals when deciding where to send their work for publication, when agreeing to review manuscripts, or when performing editorial duties. Moreover, we urge all UC authors to utilize our open access policies to make their final pre-publication manuscripts publicly and immediately accessible in our institutional repository.

RE: Outcome of UC Negotiations with Elsevier

Thursday, February 28, 2019

I am writing to share the outcome of the University of California's negotiations to renew its systemwide license with scholarly journal publisher Elsevier, which have been underway for many months.

What's happening
While we did make progress, particularly in the past few weeks, toward defining a model for open access publishing of UC research, Elsevier was ultimately unwilling to meet UC's key goal: securing universal open access to UC research, as stated in the faculty driven principles on scholarly communication, while integrating open access publishing fees and subscription fees into a single cost-controlled contract.

The Academic Senate today also expressed its support for UC's position with regard to the Elsevier negotiations.

In the end, cost, in particular, proved to be an insurmountable challenge. For example, Elsevier's most recent proposal did not include any cap on the total amount UC faculty could end up paying in article publishing fees. Their model also would not have allowed us to fully subsidize article fees for authors who lack the funds themselves. To meet UC's goal of open access publication for all UC authors, Elsevier would have charged authors over $10 million per year in addition to the libraries' current multi-million dollar subscription. The university is not willing to accept a deal that increases Elsevier's profits at the expense of our faculty. As a result, UC has announced that it will not be signing a new contract with Elsevier at this time.

While we do not know exactly when, Elsevier is expected to begin limiting UC's access to new articles through its online platform, ScienceDirect, possibly very soon. This will mean some changes to how UC scholars access certain Elsevier journal articles.

What content will — and won't — be affected
If you use Elsevier articles in your research, here are the most important things to know:

- Most Elsevier articles published in 2018 or earlier will still be accessible via ScienceDirect. Because UC’s prior contracts included permanent access to previously published content, you will still be able to get immediate access to the full text of most articles via Elsevier's ScienceDirect backfiles, just as you have in the past.

- Open access articles in Elsevier journals are also unaffected. Many authors choose to pay an open access fee (called an article processing charge, or APC) when they publish, so it's always worth checking to see if the article you're seeking is available open access.
from the journal’s website or elsewhere online click here for tips on how to search for open access versions).

- Elsevier e-books and other products licensed by UC (e.g., Compendex, Reaxys) or by UC Irvine (e.g., Scopus, ClinicalKey, SciVal) are covered under separate contracts and remain available as before.

- What is affected: At some point, Elsevier may begin to turn off UC’s direct access to articles with a 2019 publish date and the backfiles of certain journals (download list). However, open access versions of many of these articles are available. For advice on where to look, click here. You can also submit a request and the UCI Libraries will help you get a copy of the final, published version of an article.

UC terminates subscriptions with world’s largest scientific publisher in push for open access to publicly funded research

UC Office of the President
Thursday, February 28, 2019

As a leader in the global movement toward open access to publicly funded research, the University of California is taking a firm stand by deciding not to renew its subscriptions with Elsevier. Despite months of contract negotiations, Elsevier was unwilling to meet UC’s key goal: securing universal open access to UC research while containing the rapidly escalating costs associated with for-profit journals.

In negotiating with Elsevier, UC aimed to accelerate the pace of scientific discovery by ensuring that research produced by UC’s 10 campuses — which accounts for nearly 10 percent of all U.S. publishing output — would be immediately available to the world, without cost to the reader. Under Elsevier’s proposed terms, the publisher would have charged UC authors large publishing fees on top of the university’s multi-million dollar subscription, resulting in much greater cost to the university and much higher profits for Elsevier.

“Knowledge should not be accessible only to those who can pay,” said Robert May, chair of UC’s faculty Academic Senate. “The quest for full open access is essential if we are to truly uphold the mission of this university.” The Academic Senate issued a statement [https://senate.universityofcalifornia.edu/_files/reports/academic-council-statement-elsevier-feb28.pdf] today endorsing UC’s position.

Open access publishing, which makes research freely available to anyone, anywhere in the world, fulfills UC’s mission by transmitting knowledge more broadly and facilitating new discoveries that build on the university’s research and scholarly work. This follows UC’s faculty-driven principles [https://senate.universityofcalifornia.edu/_files/committees/ucolasc/scholcommprinciples-20180425.pdf] on scholarly communication.

“I fully support our faculty, staff and students in breaking down paywalls that hinder the sharing of groundbreaking research,” said UC President Janet Napolitano. “This issue does not just impact UC, but also countless scholars, researchers and scientists across the globe — and we stand with them in their push for full, unfettered access.”
Elsevier is the largest scholarly publisher in the world, disseminating about 18 percent of journal articles produced by UC faculty. The transformative model that UC faculty and libraries are championing would make it easier and more affordable for UC authors to publish in an open access environment.

"Make no mistake: The prices of scientific journals now are so high that not a single university in the U.S. — not the University of California, not Harvard, no institution — can afford to subscribe to them all," said Jeffrey MacKie-Mason, university librarian and economics professor at UC Berkeley, and co-chair of UC’s negotiation team. "Publishing our scholarship behind a paywall deprives people of the access to and benefits of publicly funded research. That is terrible for society."

Elsevier was unwilling to meet UC’s reasonable contract terms, which would integrate subscription charges and open access publishing fees, making open access the default for any article by a UC scholar and stabilizing journal costs for the university.

"The university’s, and the world’s, move toward open access has been a long time in the making. Many institutions and countries agree that the current system is both financially unsustainable and ill-suited to the needs of today's global research enterprise," said Ivy Anderson, associate executive director of UC's California Digital Library and co-chair of UC’s negotiation team.

"Open access will spur faster and better research — and greater global equity of access to new knowledge."

SENATE DIVISION CHAIRS
EXECUTIVE VICE CHANCELLORS AND PROVOSTS

Dear Colleagues:

On January 18, 2019, Academic Senate Chair Robert May initiated Senate review of a proposal to extend a guarantee of admission to all qualified California Community College (CCC) students (https://senate.universityofcalifornia.edu/_files/underreview/rm-senate-review-transfer-guarantee.pdf). This guarantee builds on and links two existing aspects of the transfer process—namely, major preparation coursework in UC Transfer Pathways and campus-based Transfer Admission Guarantees (TAGs). The proposal was crafted as part of a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) between UC Office of the President and the CCC Chancellor’s Office. At this juncture, two critically important undertakings related to the guarantee proposal must commence: 1) confirming and articulating Transfer Pathways across the UC system; and 2) reviewing the current TAG requirements.

Advancing Systemwide Articulation of UC Transfer Pathways

Created by UC faculty in 2015, Transfer Pathways specify courses students should take to prepare for admission to all campuses offering any of the 21 most popular majors for transfer applicants. They provide potential transfer students clear guidance about preparing for study at UC. Availability of CCC courses articulated consistently across the UC system to fulfill courses specified in these Pathways is a complementary imperative. Accordingly, University staff have worked diligently to present CCC courses to UC faculty to achieve course articulation and have made significant progress. It is important now to consult faculty in the departments offering the Pathway majors on issues where CCC articulation gaps persist. Such consultation will be valuable generally to revisit Pathways after four years and is all the more pressing given that they provide the foundation for the new guarantee proposal.

Review of Transfer Admission Guarantees

Likewise, because TAGs provide the mechanism for securing a spot within the UC system, faculty review of current TAG requirements, policies, and practices is vital. Six campuses—Davis, Irvine, Merced, Riverside, Santa Barbara, and Santa Cruz—offer Transfer Admission Guarantees. A CCC student may initiate a TAG agreement for one of these six, securing the guarantee through completion of required coursework at or above a minimum specified GPA.

The aim of the TAG reviews is for campuses to ensure TAG policies are optimal for their local objectives and circumstances. Reviews should also strengthen the existing efforts to examine TAG requirements periodically by prompting greater faculty engagement. The MOU with the Community Colleges calls for the University’s Academic Senate to review TAGs, considering modifications or enhancements as well as possible expansion. The systemwide Board of

Admissions and Relations with Schools (BOARS) has expressed an interest in promoting all TAGs within the systemwide guarantee currently under Academic Senate review.

Call to Action & Key Contacts
Collaboration of Senate and administration staff at UCOP, and of both faculty and staff on the campuses, is critical for the success of these efforts. This letter is to set the stage for those in the Senate chain and those in the administration chain. The Transfer Pathways work will be guided by the Transfer Pathways & Articulation Workgroup, co-chaired by Senate Vice Chair Kum-Kum Bhavnani and Jim Chalfant, Faculty Advisor to the Systemwide Provost. Based on the workgroup’s recommendations, the UCOP Transfer Pathways project team aims to consult faculty by major, as needed, across campuses this spring. On a parallel track, TAG work will be done on respective campuses within each TAG program. In sum, all nine undergraduate campuses will be called upon to participate in this opportunity to review their transfer admissions requirements.

Streams of work connected by the guarantee proposal will most certainly involve degrees of overlap and systemwide coordination that primarily will be handled by UCOP Undergraduate Admissions. Deeper background information for those who will be involved in Transfer Pathways articulation and/or TAG reviews shall be distributed under separate cover. The required work should proceed apace, as the University must have the structure of the transfer guarantee in place—and thereby its component parts—by fall 2019 to accommodate students entering community colleges and applying for transfer admission to UC as early as fall 2021.

Please direct questions to UCOP Undergraduate Admissions:
- For inquiries about UC Transfer Pathways articulation: Monica Lin, Director of Academic Preparation and Relations with Schools & Colleges, Monica.Lin@ucop.edu
- For inquiries about TAG reviews: Han Mi Yoon-Wu, Interim AVC of Undergraduate Admissions and Director of Undergraduate Admissions, HanMi.Yoon-Wu@ucop.edu

Thank you in advance for your support of this important work on behalf of future UC transfer students.

Sincerely,
